E. O. NORTON,

QUESTION. Come, schoolboys, all, your skill to try, I'll you an Equation; Not hard enough to make sigh With trouble or vexation. Two gentlemes, named Jones and Brown. Came to Oak Hall, lately, To see the dasst stock in town; And they admired it greatly.

Both garments bought, but Jones bought more Than Brown—this point remember; The clothes were accellent, I'm sure, And suited to December.

The number such one bought, from ten Subtracted, leaves a sum Which multiplied by the number's sell, To twenty-one does come. How many parments, now declare. Did Mr. Jones obtain? How many, ton, did Mr. Brown At a oderate prices gain?

Now, lads, if you there things so tell Possess the skill said power, Your parents should reward you well With suits from our Oak Mata-With suits from our case.

Our stock of CLOTHING is now very large, and we offer it for the next sixty days at wholeaste prices, at OAR HALL SLOTHING ROOM, case at the case of the case o
